URGE PARENTS TO VISIT THE CITY SCHOOLS

"Teachers' Week" to Be Observed Here and Thruout Ohio Next Week

According to a proclamation issued by Governor Cox, the week of February 15 to 22 is to be known as Teachers' week.

As the result of the serious shortage in the teaching staff in the public schools of not only Ohio, but all over the country, some schools have been entirely closed, while others have been handicapped by the employment of inexperienced teachers Many of the best teachers, especially in the smaller cities, have gone where they could get better pay, and the teachers are now demandins that they receive proper wages commensurate with the duties they perform.

Superintendent Shelton of the Elyria public schools calls attention to the situation, and asks that parents interest themselves during the coming week in the schools Visitors are always welcome and they are invited to see just what is being accomplished. The local schools have a hard time keeping their working force together as other cities are beginning to bid for the services of competent experienced help. The school board has raised wages twice during the past year, and still the bid from other cities goes on At West Tech Cleveland, there are at present three teachers from the local high schools, and that does not include those that have filled positions in other schools both in Cleveland, and throughout the state.

A teacher always likes to feel that a parent is interested in the work of the teacher, said one of them today, and it causes a better understanding all around.

E. H. BARRETT, OPENS JEWELRY SHOP SATURDAY

Comes Here From Painesville Where He Was in Business 25 Years

The east end business district will have a valuable addition to its already diversified interests in the person of E. H. Barrett, jeweler and optician who opens his new store in the Brown hotel building on Saturday.

Mr. Barrett comes here from Painesville, and has had twenty five years experience as a jeweler. He is also a graduate of the South Bend Optical College, and is an optometrist of ability.

He will handle a full line of high class jewelry, diamonds watches and novelties.

Elyria has many public spirited men. We are glad to have as one among them, Mr. Barrett, concerning whose business opening the above item is written.

We have known Mr. Barrett for several years. We know there was no man in better standing in business and civic circles in the city or Painsville when we were there than was Mr. Barrett. He was Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce for some years prior to their employing a paid secretary, and it was his enthusiasm and determinaton which kept that institution alive. He was active in all good works and he is a man whom the citizens of Elyria will be glad to welcome in to the various relationships and they will find that he has added to the moral religous and commercial well being of the city.

We bid him welcome. (Editor)

Lorain, Feb. 12—Thew Shovel Co to be enlarged and Capt. Richard Thew will retire.

PROTEST SEWER IS INADEQUATE

East Broad street merchants are complaining that the new ten-inch sewer now being placed on East avenue is not large enough for the demands that will be made on it in the future, and believe that a twenty-four inch sewer would be better.

They also object to its being put in at this time of the year. They state that the ground is frozen deep and that the dirt will be put back in the trenches in a frozen condition, and as the paving will take place early in the spring, the tendency will be for the ground to settle under the pavement.

REPUBLICANS OF COUNTY TO HOLD BANQUET

State Representative Crabbe One of Speakers on Program Honoring Memory of Lincoln and McKinley

Lincoln, the Immortal, and McKinley the statesman, will be honored this evening at the banquet of the Republican County Executive Committee at Elks hall.

Elaborate preparations have been made by those in charge to make this occasion a memorable one, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. The old guard will be on hand and the later day politicians and republicans will do honor to this illustrious pair that did so much to write golden pages in American history and in fact the history of the world.

Among the speakers this evening will be Representative Crabbe, father of the famous Crabbe act, and other speakers will be Representative William Hughes, of Lorain, Attorney Chas. Adams, Lorain and Editor Phillips of the Oberlin News. It is planned to make this a real old-fashioned get together meeting, and every republican that can possible do so should be present.

BUSINESS CLUB TO AFFILIATE WITH CHAMBER

C. E. Lozier Gave Address at Young Mens Business Club Gathering

Some seventy-five members of the Young Men's Business club were present at the regular meeting in the Andwur hotel Tuesday evening where dinner was served. After the meal Bert Williams entertained the men with two well-executed negro monologues.

C. E. Lozier, of the Columbia Steel Company, was the speaker of the evening, his talk being the presentation of a letter which he recently received from a boyhood friend. The letter was a backward look to the old days—a wonderful expression of the change and emotions of a man's life. It was, in short, a classic, and the hearing of it was a rare opportunity.

E. J. Howenstein of the Chamber of Commerce was present and expressed the desire of that body to have the Young Men's Business club affiliate themselves with it. The club voted unanimously to work and cooperate with the Chamber of Commerce.

Final plans were being made by officials, and only an agreement between representatives of the men and President Wilson will avert it.

WORK FINISHED OHIO ASSEMBLY ENDS SESSION

Storage and Utility Bills Fail to Pass, But Hotel Bill Is Repassed--Wants Sessions Limited

Columbus, Feb. 12—The General Assembly finished its work last night and under a resolution amending that adopted last week adjourned sine die at midnight.

The noise raised by Democratic newspapers regarding the necessity for amending and repassing the Smith storage and Evans utility bills came to nought when attempts to get the voice on these measures, introduced and fathered by Democrats, reconsidered failed.

A reconsideration motion on the Evans bill made in the Senate was ruled out of order by Lieutenant Governor Brown because it was enrolled and in the hands of the joint enrollment committee. The only way a bill can be recalled from that committee is by a joint resolution.

Hotel Bill Repassed.

In an effort to make the Sparks Senate bill for hotel inspection and regulation immediately effective the veto by which it was originally passed was reconsidered and the measure repassed. This bill cures defects in the hotels law enacted a year ago, which the courts found made it unconstitutional. But the House refused to adopt the emergency clause. The law will not go into effect therefore, for ninety days.

Representative Lytle, of Medina county introduced a bill passed under suspension of the rules appropriating $364,000 for paying increased salaries of state employees. It was explained that the official bill drawn in drafting the original appropriation measure had made a mistake in his figures and that 728,000, the increased pay for a year, had been entered as the appropriation for 18 months, leaving the fund for the salaries of the employees $364,000 short.

Would Limit Sessions.

Senator Wright of Cleveland, introduced a resolution in the Senate for submission of a constitutional amendment limiting legislative sessions to sixty days. He failed to get the rules suspended to take up the proposal for action and it died on the caledar.

The House refused to reconsider the vote by which the bill to increase the compensation of probate judges 25 per cent was defeated last week. Had the bill which passed the Senate been enacted into law the salary of Probate Judge Hadden in Cleveland would have been raised to $7,500 a year from $6,000. The bill furthermore would have had the effect of raising the pay of insolvency Judge Addams, since another law provides insolvency judges shall not receive the same compensation as probate judges. Legislative agents of the Cleveland Bar Association were here working for the bill.

The Senate passed the King House bill providing for the establishment of five rescue stations in mining districts. Senator Agnew, of Cleveland, tried to get the Senate to take the teachers' tenure bill from the committee on schools, but lost, 14 to 8.

Situation Serious

Washington, Feb. 12.—In making the announcement, Secretary Tumulty said: "It had not been decided which of the Brotherhood representatives would be invited to the White House This," he added, "will be left to Mr. Hines."

The director general was in conference with Mr. Tumulty this morning and then returned to his office to complete his memorandum for the president, who will be asked to make the final decision on the demand presented by the railroad workers nearly a year ago.

While railroad administration officials and union representatives apparently were inclined to regard the situation as hopeful, White House officials expressed concern at the gravity of the problems presented. Without disclosing what these questions were, it was declared that the general public did not realize the serious nature of the issues involved. Union officials with the exception of Maintenance of Way employees and the Brotherhod of Railway Train Men, apparently were willing to leave the case in the hands of the president.

Conferences Planned

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, also was to confer with the director general on his reasons for invalidating the agreement which his organization has. Notification of the invalidation to break the agreement was given to Mr. Hines January 22, which, under the 30 day clause will leave that organization without a working contract with the railway administration on February 23, six days before the roads return to private ownership. The action of Mr. Lee is giving administration officials concern. While his representatives have participated in all sessions of the general conference, Mr. Lee contends his organization has the right to press his grievances and demands separately.

Today's Developments

Washington, Feb. 12.—[illegible] director General of Railroads [illegible] today awaked word from President Wilson to the wage controversy between railway shopmen and maintenance of way employees went right ahead with strike plans.

Latest developments in the railroad situation are:

Conferences between Director General Hines, brotherhood officials and the committee of sixteen, representing fourteen organizations and 400,000 men, who are demanding wage increases discontinued last night, without a settlement having been reached.

Hines sends complete data of the deliberations of the conference to President Wilson with a request for intervention.

To Be No Strike.

There will be no general strike of the railway trainmen. W. G. Lee of Cleveland, president of the trainmen's brotherhood, emphatically denies reports that he said a strike of the men was imminent if their demands were refused.

LINCOLN'S GETTYSBURG ADDRESS

Feb. 12, 1809—ABRAHAM LINCOLN—Apr. 15, 1865

(Delivered at the Dedication of the Cemetery in Gettysburg, November 19, 1863.)

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived of liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But in a larger sense, we can not dedicate—we can not consecrate—we can not hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

SAYINGS OF LINCOLN

Prosperity is the fruit of labor.

Let none falter who thinks he is right.

Come what will, I will keep my faith with friend and foe.

That some should be rich shows that others may become rich.

All that I am, all that I hope to be, I owe to my angel mother.

I believe in the providence of men—the largest purse and the longest cannon.

Nowhere in the world is presented a government of so much liberty and equality.

To add brightness to the sun or glory to the name of Washington is alike impossible.

Few can be induced to labor excessively for posterity, and none will do it enthusiastically.

I have always plucked a thistle and planted a flower when I thought a flower would grow.

If you aim too high your idea will go over the heads of the masses and only hit those who need no hitting.

If we could first know where we are, and whither we are tending, we could better judge what to do and how to do it.

Let us have faith that Right makes Might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it.

The mystic cords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave of every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our

They spent over three months on a huge 4,000 acre farm, plowing, harrowing, pitching hay, mowing, and driving binders. They spent at least ten hours on the field and took entire care of their horses. Despite the hard work the girls are longing for the freedom of the plains and they can scarcely wait until the summer comes when they will return to the ranch.

List of Questions

...Does our organization, "The ...ated Churches of Lorain Coun... hold an advisory and co-opera... relationship with the Federal ...il of the Churches of Christ in ...ica, and is your organization ...iated with the Inter-church ...d Movement?

...We presume this question must ...swered affirmatively because of ...own published "Constitution" ...because of a letter we have re... from the Inter-Church World ...ment of North America which ...ms this correlation. (Our ...er questions therefore pass be... the local body of the Federated ...ches of Lorain County to the ...r parent body, The Inter... ...h World Movement. To join ...ocal Federation is to become a ...of the National Federation.)

...estion 2. Does the Inter-church World Movement demand that its members shall stand firm in the faith once for all devilered to the Saints, or does it seek to federate all sundry saints and sinners apart from any scriptural standard as to doctrine?

Question 3. Does the Inter-church World Movement seek to enroll under its patronage the women of the land, who, apart from any real vital Christian experience are merely prominent in "social, club, business, educational and philanthropic" activities?

Question 4. Does the Inter-church World Movement urgently seek the fellowship of only twice born saints who are ready to lead lives separate from worldliness and consecrated unto the service of Christ along the lines of the revealed will of God; or does it throw down its bars to all and even place in prominent position men whose chief asset is a fat pocketbook and who make no profession to vital purity and who claim no positive leadings of the Holy Spirit in their daily walk?

Question 5. Does the Inter-church World Movement seek to raise a large sum of money, with the purpose of pooling it, for the maintennance of any kind an enterprise or institution which may have sought shelter under the wings of any one of the great denominations?

Question 6. Does the Inter-church World Movement propose to place millions of money into the hands of colleges which are universally conceded to have swerved from the Word of God, and which are steadily undermining the very foundations of the faith.

Question 7. Does the Inter-church World Movement not place special emphasis upon economics, civic righteousness, Americanization making the world safe for democracy and kindred social service fads, and does the movement not employ in this propaganda men and women who have never been born again and who know nothing of preaching Christ as the sinner's only hope?

Question 8. Does the Inter-church World Movement acknowledge the money to support missionaries who have no vital Calvary message for the heathen of other lands, or, does it raise no question as to who shall go or as to what they shall preach?

Question 9. Does the Inter-church World Movement asknowledge the present apostacy from the faith, does it forewarn concerning the laxity of Christian living and does it call one and all to confession of sins and to repentance that God may forgive and restore and bless the service of his saints?

If you can satisfactorily answer these questions, you may help not only our church, but hundreds of other churches in the land, to determine what their attitude should be both to the big world movements and the smaller local and correlated movements.

Sincerely yours,
The First Baptist Church.

They couldn't be built now for twice $71,000

When the talk turns from politics to railroads, and the traveler with the cocksure air breaks in with, "There's an awful lot of 'water' in the railroads," here are some hard-pan facts to give him:

American railroads have cost $80,900 a mile—roadbed, structures, stations, yards, terminals, freight and passenger trains—everything from the great city terminals to the last spike.

A good concrete-and-asphalt highway costs $36,000 a mile—just a bare road, not counting the cost of culverts, bridges, etc.

Our railroads couldn't be duplicated today for $150,000 a mile.

They are capitalized for only $71,000 a mile—much less than their actual value. Seventy-one thousand dollars today will buy one locomotive.

English railways are capitalized at $274,000 a mile; the French at $155,000; German $132,000; even in Canada (still in pioneer development) they are capitalized at $67,000 a mile. The average for all foreign countries is $100,000.

Low capitalization and high operating efficiency have enabled American railroads to pay the highest wages while charging the lowest rates.

"Property is the fruit of labor, property is desirable is a positive good in the world . . . Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built."

SOUND BUSINESS BASIS FOR CHURCH

Interchurch World Movement Natural Growth of Tendency to Eliminate Waste.

AVOIDS USELESS COMPETITION

Religious Financiering Revolutionized by Success of Men and Millions Movement and Co operation Is Result.

The Interchurch World Movement of North America is an attempt by forward-looking leaders of the various evangelical denominations of the United States and Canada to co-ordinate the resources in men, money and material of Protestant America.

Historically it is the logical outgrowth of a tendency of the national boards in each denomination to form working alliances among themselves, in which each board shall preserve its identity and control its own personnel and treasury.

In former times, the home mission society, the foreign mission society, the church extension society and the various philanthropic and eleemosynary agencies of any denomination conducted their affairs independently of one another Each surveyed its own restricted territory, prepared a budget of money and workers for its own purposes and made its own appeal to its constituency for support.

This could only mean that these agencies were more or less in competition with one another, that there were waste and duplication of work and money, and that among them all some work was neglected and some denominational resources were entirely overlooked Because of their specialized training, the leaders of each agency regarded themselves as peculiarly fitted for their tasks, and jealously regarded attempts at outside interference

Decide on Experiment.

After decades of such haphazard methods, the leaders of one denomination decided on an experiment. They thought it would be possible for the agencies to get together for a common study of all the opportunities and resources of their brotherhood, to make out a unified budget of men and money, and to conduct a concerted appeal for funds It was made clear that each constituent board should preserve complete autonomy

When the board representatives met they found it possible to eliminate a great amount of organization expenses They ultimately worked out a budget and plan of campaign that was satisfactory to all This resulted in the famous "Men and Millions Movement" of the Disciples of Christ, which brought in what was then considered the staggering sum of $6,300,000 for a five year program. The members of the commission were so pleased with this business-like method of conducting affairs that they contributed even more generously than had been expected

The success of the enterprise revolutionized the whole business of church financiering The other great denominations immediately adopted the plan The denominational associations have come to be known as "forward movements," and some thirty of them are in existence today Each one has clarified all the information in relation to enterprise within the denomination, and has reduced the business of collecting and spending money to a science

World-Budget Formed.

The Interchurch World Movement is simply a plan to do interdenominationally what the forward movements have done within the various communions. It means that every denominational budget will be made in the light of world needs instead of in the semi-obscurity of incomplete information. It means that contributions to one denomination will not be in wasteful competition with contributions to another.

The functions of the Interchurch World Movement are threefold First, it collects, by means of world surveys, all the pertinent facts on which denominational programs may be built. Second, it sets up the practical machinery of co-operation. Third, it acts in an advisory capacity whenever its advice is requested.

The Movement has nothing to do with organic church union or matters of creed or doctrine. Each constituent unit preserves complete autonomy, and is bound only so far as it wishes to be bound. Financial appeals are made by each denomination to its own constituency. Any surplus in undesignated funds, over and above the actual cost of administration, will be prorated among the denominations engaged in a given financial undertaking.

An illustration of one thing the Movement can do is to be found in a western community of 1,600 persons in which thirteen denominations have been supporting separate churches with missionary funds, while an adjacent territory of 50,000 persons has only three churches. By seeing that all missionary boards are supplied with information in such cases, the Movement will make possible a wiser distribution of funds.

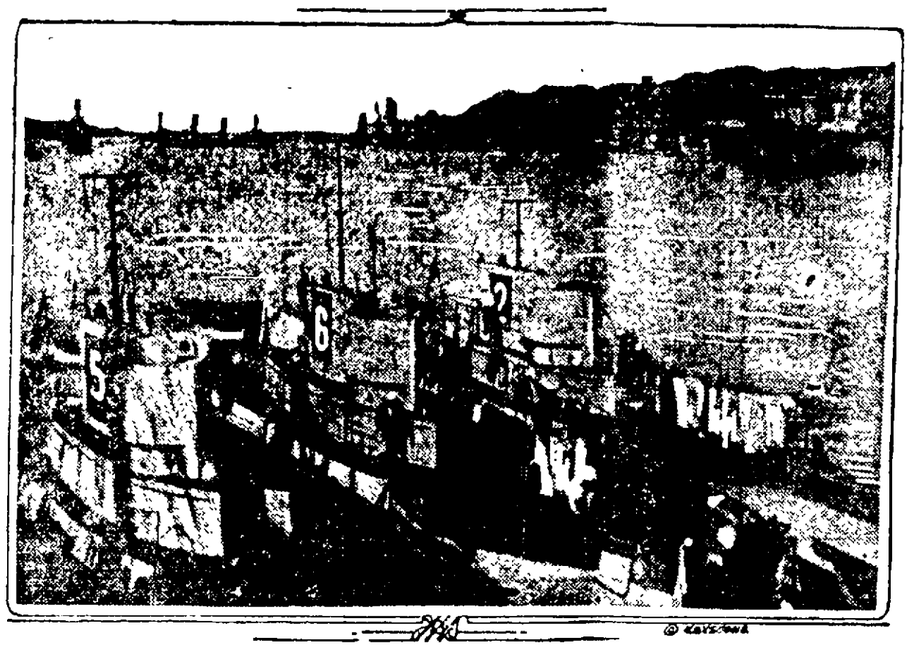

Its first goals are to reduce unnecessary duplication and overlapping to a minimum and to bring about an intelligent division of labor in unoccupied fields. The Movement is, at bottom, an attempt to put church business on sound, business-like foundations.

Hundreds Strong and Well Again— All Used Hypo-Cod

"I think Earle's Hypo-Cod is splendid It made me feel young and strong after being so sick and bad I was ready to give up,' declared Mrs Sloon, whose address is given below.

"I was in a rundown, broken-down condition Had an awful pain in my side Nobody could tell me what to do and the medicine they gave me didn't budge it I lost my appetite and became terribly nervous So much so that I could not sleep I finally got so weak I had to give up doing my housework Finally my eyes became weak and I could hardly see They would water, and it seemed like I always had a cold I would sneeze and cough continually

'Since I took Earle's Hypo-Cod however a wonderful change had come over me The pains in my side are gone My eyesight is better, I can see to read good now My appetite is splendid and I m so strong and well again I'm doing my housework I took the Nerv-Mintz along with the Earle's Hypo Cod and they are just fine I sleep good Nerves are steady and I m as strong today as I ever was I m glad to speak these few words of praise for this wonderful medicine for it proved to be a Godsend to me ' continued Mrs Lillie Sloon 2434 E 58th St, S E, Cleveland Ohio

Go right down to the drug store, and secure a bottle of Earle's Hypo-Cod Read the formula on the bottle carefully ask your family physician about it, also note how pleasant it is to take and how perfectly it agrees with the most delicate stomach

LIFE OF RILEY — BY "EDDIE" WHITE

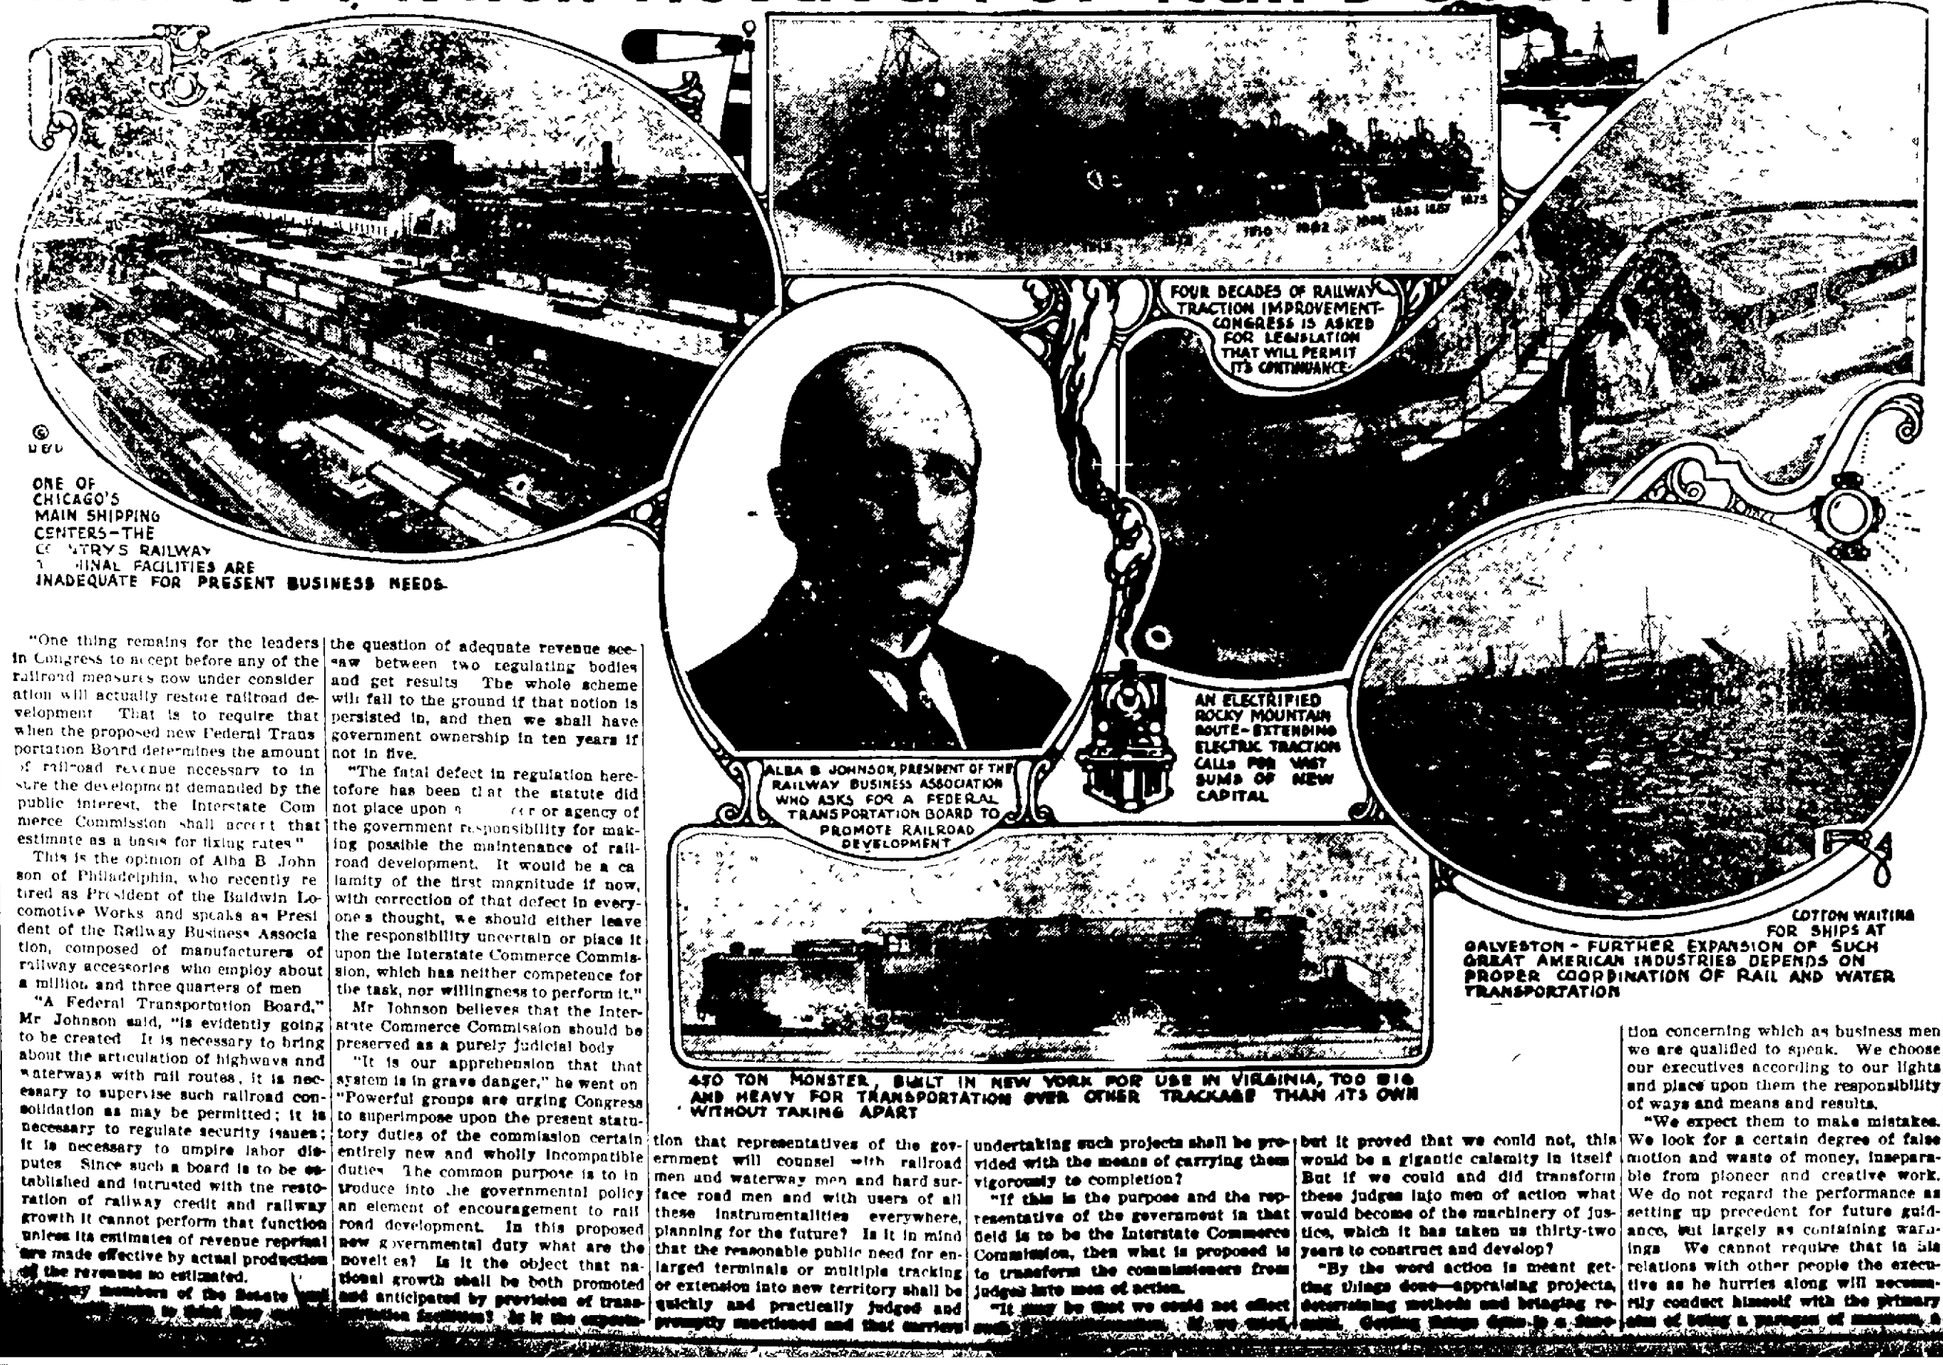

TERRIBLE TESSIE -:- By Probasco

Men Of Action Needed For Rail Development

"One thing remains for the leaders in Congress to accept before any of the railroad measures now under consideration will actually restore railroad development That is to require that when the proposed new Federal Transportation Board determines the amount of railroad revenue necessary to insure the development demanded by the public interest, the Interstate Commerce Commission shall accept that estimate as a basis for fixing rates."

This is the opinion of Alba B Johnson of Philadelphia, who recently retired as President of the Baldwin Locomotive Works and speaks as President of the Railway Business Association, composed of manufacturers of railway accessories who employ about a million and three quarters of men

"A Federal Transportation Board," Mr Johnson said, "is evidently going to be created It is necessary to bring about the articulation of highways and waterways with rail routes, it is necessary to supervise such railroad consolidation as may be permitted; it is necessary to regulate security issues; it is necessary to umpire labor disputes Since such a board is to be established and intrusted with the restoration of railway credit and railway growth it cannot perform that function unless its estimates of revenue reprisal are made effective by actual production of the revenues so estimated.

"...many members of the Senate and ... in this they are ... the question of adequate revenue seesaw between two regulating bodies and get results The whole scheme will fall to the ground if that notion is persisted in, and then we shall have government ownership in ten years if not in five.

"The fatal defect in regulation heretofore has been that the statute did not place upon a ... or agency of the government responsibility for making possible the maintenance of railroad development. It would be a calamity of the first magnitude if now, with correction of that defect in everyone's thought, we should either leave the responsibility uncertain or place it upon the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has neither competence for the task, nor willingness to perform it."

Mr Johnson believes that the Interstate Commerce Commission should be preserved as a purely judicial body

"It is our apprehension that that system is in grave danger," he went on "Powerful groups are urging Congress to superimpose upon the present statutory duties of the commission certain entirely new and wholly incompatible duties The common purpose is to introduce into the governmental policy an element of encouragement to railroad development. In this proposed new governmental duty what are the novelties? Is it the object that national growth shall be both promoted and anticipated by provision of transportation facilities? Is it the expectation that representatives of the government will counsel with railroad men and waterway men and hard surface road men and with users of all these instrumentalities everywhere, planning for the future? Is it in mind that the reasonable public need for enlarged terminals or multiple tracking or extension into new territory shall be quickly and practically judged and promptly sanctioned and that carriers undertaking such projects shall be provided with the means of carrying them vigorously to completion?

"If this is the purpose and the representative of the government in that field is to be the Interstate Commerce Commission, then what is proposed is to transform the commissioners from judges into men of action.

"It may be that we could not effect ... transformation. If we could, but it proved that we could not, this would be a gigantic calamity in itself But if we could and did transform these judges into men of action what would become of the machinery of justice, which it has taken us thirty-two years to construct and develop?

"By the word action is meant getting things done—appraising projects, determining methods and bringing results. Getting things done is a function concerning which as business men we are qualified to speak. We choose our executives according to our lights and place upon them the responsibility of ways and means and results.

"We expect them to make mistakes. We look for a certain degree of false motion and waste of money, inseparable from pioneer and creative work. We do not regard the performance as setting up precedent for future guidance, but largely as containing warnings We cannot require that in his relations with other people the executive as he hurries along will necessarily conduct himself with the primary aim of being a paragon of meekness, a model of forbearance or a professor of ethical philosophy He uses the self-restraint which all responsible citizens use in a civilized community where there is law and order and a decent respect for the rights of others, but his specialty is getting things done

"Congress, which is the board of directors of the nation, is about to undertake a project—the restoration of railroad development. Congress is about to assign supervision of that task to an agent. Those who have elected Congress as their board of directors will not be satisfied with a report that postponement of the result desired has been accomplished politely or learnedly or according to tradition.

"What the nation requires is that each year's end will record additions to mileage at least larger than were made by a nation of 32,000,000 before the Civil War They require some progress and some completion of terminal and double-track projects, construction of motive power and cars somewhere near that before 1906, a year in which industry was shackled and foodstuffs rotted because there was not enough rolling stock to carry material to or product from the factory or to convey grain and live stock to market or seaboard The country wants results.

"We advocate, therefore, the creation of a Federal Transportation Board, which, having jurisdiction over security issues and hence over railway development, shall have the power that goes with the responsibility for results—the power of certifying to the commission the amount of revenue necessary to the public interest.

"This would designate men of action for a task of getting things done. It would preserve this excellent and highly esteemed tribunal, the Interstate Commerce Commission, as a court to insure that in getting things done the men of action shall not ride rough shod over the citizens and communities who use the facilities

"With regret we have noticed that some of those who accept our idea of a certificate of public necessity for revenue would still leave with the commission some discretion as to whether it likes or not the estimate of the Federal Transportation Board. As well provide that the auditor of a commercial company be empowered to refuse to sign checks if he believes that the purchasing authority has bought goods not needed by the company.

"To say that Congress cannot frame an authorization and the American people cannot through their chief executive establish a competent agency to make effectual the national will is to assert fundamental pessimism concerning our American experiment in self-government. Your present deponent believes we are justified rather in a glowing optimism, and if there were no other warrant for that sentiment we believe it is to be found in the quest and discovery six years ago of the soundest bonding and 'economy agreement in the world."

YEAR PROFITABLE FOR ALIENS; FILE INCOME TAX RETURNS

Aliens filing their income tax returns in New York.

America is now more than ever the land of opportunity for foreigners. Thousands of aliens in every large industrial city must file income tax returns this year, showing that they made good wages in 1919. New York tax officials report that an average of 3,000 aliens, planning to return to their native countries, file the returns each day in New York and the average day's returns total about $25,000.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON

We occupy a conspicuous place in belles-lettres just now for the reason that we have steadfastly refused to write up Maeterlinck's soul. That soul has been buffeted about, lambasted, interviewed, dissected, diagnosed and battered until it begins to resemble the old shinny can that the boys used to knock about the back lot

Although it is doubtless the most famous soul in the world, we will not delve into it with our literary stylus. The soul of our butcher is something different. We love to probe that to the limit, for it means something to us, whereas the soul of Maurice cuts no congealed moisture in our young life.

So far as we are concerned, Maeterlinck's soul can go marching on.

Why take a new census? Just put down the names of those who have been mentioned or have mentioned themselves for the presidency and the result will be about the same.

• • • •

Well, keel-haul us and shiver our timbers if Lucy Page Gaston hasn't come right out for the presidential nomination, being the first bit of presidential timberess we have heard of.

Her campaign managers bring as a first argument the fact that she bears a great facial resemblance to Abraham Lincoln.

Secondly, she has been the life-long foe of the cigaret.

Thirdly, she has no husband to worry about while presidenting.

Fourthly, that "it will take a woman to put the finishing touches on the moral uplift that is in sight."

We will not ask what it means to put the finishing touch on a moral uplift, but it seems as though somebody has put the finishing touch on it already, as it doesn't seem to be uplifting like it used to be.

But, in spite of that, and the fact that she looks like Lincoln and has no husband, we don't see how she can fail of nomination and election. Any candidate who comes right out in favor of abolishing tobacco is going to get an awful lot of votes, we feel very sure, owing to the fact that only nine out of ten men use it—and shall we say how many ladies?

Lucy's bonnet is in the ring. Let 'er flicker.

The missing one had been one of those eminently successful men who poke their noses into everybody's business.

"Well, I have seen most everybody," said the visitor when he accosted the old village blacksmith, "but where is Old So-and-So, who used to be so numerous around here?"

"Oh, him!" said the blacksmith "Well, you see, he hasn't been around here for ten year or more. We got ridden of him pretty quick. We elected him to Congress ten year ago by the largest majority a man ever got in this deestrick. Nobody has heard of him since."

Letters To The Editor

Florida Letter No 4.
By F. I LEWIS
Eustis Florida

When our party of fifty five friends and acquaintances left Berea on the evening of December 9 it was during a beautiful-timed blizzard When we opened our eyes on the morning of the 20th being 1300 miles almost directly south it seemed as though we had entered a new world

It so happened that summer time was still here the same brand of weather that had prevailed for the past ten months was still lingering Winter wraps and heavy underwear had been gradually discarded along the way and medium weight goods substituted But now, a still further reduction in wearing apparel became necessary There is just one way a person may economize here, and that is the amount of clothing necessary to make one comfortable It doesn't take much Unlike California, the winter season in Florida is the dry season and the summer, the wet season Rains are frequent short and timely for growing crops, usually coming during the night and invariably followed by sunshine the following morning Continued cloudy lowery weather and strong winds seem to be unknown

Eustis, like all other tourist towns has a wooded public park where many tourists camp during the winter Some have nicely-furnished tent-houses on wheels while others have an ordinary canvas tent stored away in their machines which they pitch wherever they stop

Several northern states are represented in the Eustis park, some have been here several months and expect to remain until spring, while others come and go apparently getting great enjoyment out of their independent nomadic experiences

Out-of-door enjoyments prevail here in winter time, as they do in the north in summer time Several big shows have visited this place, giving exhibitions under canvas

New Year's day was observed in a fitting but unique manner from a northerner's standpoint The forenoon was given over to air exhibitions given by Lieut R W Lowell Flights were made over Eustis including wing walking while plane was flying 80 miles an hour The thrill of the day however was when daredevil Owens made his parachute jump of 5 000 feet

In the afternoon came the unseasonable New Years day features that made us think of home and friends and wonder if this is a real world of chance or does it just come from living in a big country

We had heard of this community picnic through the Eustis paper before leaving home It was going some distance to a picnic and it came pretty high but it was worth it It was typical from start to finish Tables and seats placed where the shade was thickest A platform for the speakers, at the back of which and nailed to a tree was a board bearing the inscription 1920 The red lemonade was made from oranges and grape fruit to save sugar and because it was cheaper and they were, or could have been, picked off the trees standing in the next yard

But the really "special" for the day was left for the last when men, women and children walked down the hill to Lake Dot on the banks of which the picnic was held and went in bathing

Lake Dot, one of the two beautiful little bodies of water entirely within the city limits covers perhaps twenty-five acres is extremely deep but has a fine bathing beach

Lake Gracie is larger and even more beautiful, while Lake Eustis on which Eustis has its water front has its thousands of acres

While we northerners, have been having a continued summer season since our arrival, our neighbors, the believe they have experienced some winter weather In fact there did come nearly two weeks of cool weather that is it was cool during the night time It was when Ohio and her sister states were having the mercury flying hide and seek around the zero mark

Your north winds came down here doing its best to chill us but failed utterly for before reaching his far away Southland, through the influence of our good friends, the sun the chilling blasts had lost their chills the wind had lost its force and it was only a pleasant bluff

The cool weather was a change however during the night the temperature was between thirty-two and at last- according to the self-registering government thermometer located here it reached 31 No damage was done the citrus fruits however, the only noticeable results being the nipping of the foliage on banana trees Although banana leaves are from six to eight feet in length and twelve to fourteen inches in width, they are highly susceptible to frost and are better adaped to the tropics There are a large number of trees here some of which are bearing fruit, but it is of an inferior quality

During this short spell of "winter" windows that had been wide open night and day were lowered part way fire was started in our 11x14 inch wood heater each morning and evening for a short time and top coats were worn during an early morning walk

With the passing of "winter" summer conditions have returned Florida is in a class by itself At its southern extremity it is six hundred miles nearer the equator than Los Angoles and is 300 miles farther south than New Orleans It extends a whole degree towards the tropics beyond the latitude of Brownsville Texas the next most southern point in the United States

Its elevation above the sea level is less than any other state except Louisiana But, notwithstanding its low altitude and owing to its being surrounded on three sides by salt water in lightness, clearness and purity its atmosphere rivals that of the mountainous districts of the West. Like those western states its sunlight and its moonlight compares with those of the northern states in color, as an electric light compares with the light from a tallow candle or from John D's 13c kerosene

As we have been reading of the cold and immense quantities of snow and ice in Ohio of the impassable conditions of the roads and how one farmer more thrifty than his neighbors, pulled twenty-two autos from snow banks in one day at $2 a pull, we realized for the first time we are losing, financially, by being where there are no snow banks

Do people die in Florida? The death rate is very light, considering all the circumstances. A large majority of the people of the North who leave their homes for a warmer climate, are those who are well along in years many come seeking to recover lost health

Dear Sir

My attention has been drawn to a dispatch published in your issue dealing with alleged canvassing by members of Smith college in guise of street peddlers mentioning a student from Elyria as prominent among those taking part I should be glad if you would give publicity to the fact that the dispatch is without foundation from beginning to end No such canvass has taken place in the towns mentioned nor have undergraduates been engaged in any thing of the kind Neither Governor Cox nor I could have been called upon to defend methods which have not been employed I regret that a number of newspapers have been victimized by some news agency seeking to make business without regard to truth

GAS PRESSURE DANGEROUS

Dear Editor

The gas given us by this corporation is but a characteristic trait of people who are hidden behind the name "Corporation They have let up a little for only a short time since the air pressure put out the gas light, so as to render it absolutely dangerous to leave a jet burning at night

Have they realized the legal responsibility they incurred and put a stop to it? If I make a poor deal I have to stand it I think they should do the same simply quit sitting with feet on desk, cocked back in their easy chairs smoking 2c cent Havanas, and go to work earning their money and take their medicine as men. Just think of a soulless corporation begging Not one of them would do it in their own name You gave them a hot shot and you deserve the following of every honest man, rich and poor alike B S U

That Old-Fashioned Saint
BY MOLLIE PRICE COOK

"Why do we celebrate St. Valentine's day, mother?"

"It's like most of our customs, Dorothy A celebration that has only a local interest is taken up by outsiders and falls into universal use. In the first century A. D there were two Roman priests named Valentine who did much good for their people, distributing alms and sacrificing themselves in many ways They died on the same day. Thereafter, the Romans did them honor by distributing gifts on their memorial day—February 14th."

"Did we just copy the custom from the Romans?"

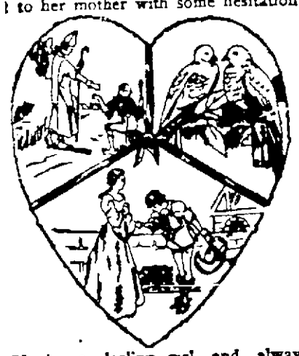

"Not exactly When Roman customs came into England, a little of the St Valentine spirit remained Rural folk adopted the habit of making St. Valentine's day an occasion for gifts between sweethearts. If the young man did not give a gift to his bride-to-be on February 14th, she had cause for annulling the engagement. It is also thought that St. Valentine's day is the time when birds begin to mate; therefore a time for messages of love between friends."

Dorothy said: "Mother, I'm going to make Valentine's day a real time for my friends There is not one who will not know how I value friendship When you see my list, you will be surprised."

Dorothy went to her desk and wrote Here is her plan:

"1 Answer Aunt Eleanor's letter. 2 Write grandmother (I have not written for months) 3 Send each of the girls a card wishing her good luck. 4 Write a short note to every member of the family saying something pleasant (to be used instead of place cards at the dinner table) 5 Return the book I borrowed from Mary White. 6 Mend my stockings 7 Do something especially nice for mother 8 Be pleasant all day. 9 Do all the odds and ends that I have been neglecting 10. As I do each thing I will make a check over the number"

Dorothy was a trifle embarrassed over the things she listed and showed it to her mother with some hesitation

"You're a darling girl, and always original," said her mother, and Dorothy thought mother's eyes looked a trifle misty

The Head Stand
BY DR. E. D. ANGELL

"What new trick will you teach us today?" asked Ralph

Beppo walked to the mat and bent forward till head and hands were on the mat; his legs straightened in the air and, motionless as a statue, he stood there on his head "That's it," he said "It's so dead easy that I am surprised every boy in the world does not do it naturally. It's really much harder to stand on your feet than on your head, for when upside down, you have three points of support—your head and your two hands

"Now watch me and remember all that I tell you—kneel on the left knee with the right foot just a few inches ahead of the knee—place both hands on the floor with fingers spead—place your head on the floor about a foot in front of the hands—rest both knees on your elbows and lift your feet from the floor See—I am standing on my head but my legs are not up in the air"

Beppo made the boys do what he had shown them a number of times and, when they had demonstrated that they could hold the position easily, he continued his lesson

'Remember what you have just learned," said the little clown, "and the perfect 'head stand' will come with a little practice From the position I have just taught you, raise the legs very gradually and don't let your neck wobble—keep your feet well in front until you get 'the feel' of the balance. Boys usually fail in the head stand because they are in too much of a hurry to get the feet up, and they fall over on their backs—but if you go at it easily and slowly raise your legs you can keep your balance and before long you will wonder why you couldn't do it the very first time you tried.

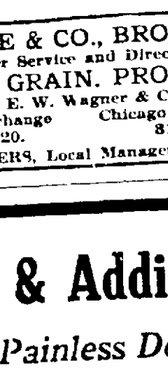

"When you get home, place a soft pillow about a foot from the wall and try your head stand on that; if you over-balance touch the wall with your foot and that will help you get 'the feel' of the head stand"

Began With Love Lottery

A delicate hint to a bachelor that it is time for him to take a mate is a valentine to which is tied with white satin lovers' bow knot the gilded rib of some small animal, indicative of Adam's rib from which Woman is said to have been made.

St. Valentine a Martyred Priest

Of St. Valentine little is known. A [illegible] writing, [illegible]

So famous for his love and charity that the custom of choosing valentines upon his festival day took its name and form from thence." History tells us that St. Valentine was a priest of Rome martyred in the year 270. He died a sad death, being beaten with clubs and then beheaded. Some of his remains are now preserved in the church of St. Praxedes at Rome., A gate in Rome, now called the Porta de Popolo, was formerly named for him, Porta Valnetini. His memory is much revered.

St. Valentine's Is Good Day to Wed

A pretty story has been written by one author concerning St. Valentine. This tells that Valentine was such a beloved priest that everyone in Rome wanted to be blest by him. This was in the reign of Emperor Cladius the Cruel who waged war year after year.

At last the men had enough of war. They rebelled against being led to slaughter and having to part from their wives, sweethearts and families.

This angered the emperor. He ordered that no more marriages or engagements should be contracted. The result was, that the young maidens died of love and the young men were moody, finding no use in living and going about their work when they had no inspiration.

Valentine, the priest, became very sad as he watched the effect of the emperor's decree against marriage. One day he secetly married a couple before his altar. Others came to be wed, and still others. Valentine united them in marriage according to the dictates of his own conscience.

When Claudius heard of Valentine's daring, he cast the priest into prison, into a dark dungeon, where he languished and grew pale and weak. Finally death came. Thereafter people honored his day annually, many marrying on St. Valentine's day so that he might guide their love aright.

First Poetical Valentines

The earliest existing examples of poetical valentines are now in the British Museum. They were written in the Tower of London by Charles Duke of Orleans who was taken prisoner at Agincourt in 1415.

Writes Valentine In Own Blood

What could be more certain evidence of a man's love than to receive from him a valentine written in his very blood! The only known valentine of this kind was sent by one John Birchall to his beloved in the year 1864. It consists of verses that called her attention to the fact that he could 'freely bleed for your sake."

Meet Your Fate In a Lottery

The proper ceremonial for St. Valentine's day has been, then, for centuries a lottery, by which one is presented by Fate with someone to love and revere, saint or human being. The ancient custom in England and Scotland—which still survives more or less at valentine parties in America—is the drawing of names on St. Valentine's eve or day.

An equal number of girls and boys, or young women and men, gathered together write their names on slips of paper, roll up the slips and cast them into a box. The slip are then thoroughly mixed. Each person may then draw a name, the girl or man whose name is drawn to be his or her valentine.

The slip of paper drawn was worn in the bosom for several days. The young man was supposed to ask the young woman to dances all that year. Often the affair ended in love.

In past generations young folks had a superstitious regard for this chance selection. It seemed to them to be Fate's way of pointing out the right life-partner to them. If the person drawn as a valentine was at all eligible, it was quite likely that wedlock might occur. The trouble was, as someone has pointed out, that each person had two valentines, but that a man was somewhere more likely to stick faster to the valentine who was drawn by him than to the valentine who drew him.

Easy to Make This Pine Cough Remedy

Thousands of families swear by its prompt results. Inexpensive, and saves about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children take it eagerly.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Here are two different styles which show the trend of the new fall millinery. The upper hat is a variation of the tam-shape developed in black velvet with a soft crown and up-turned brim. This style is particularly suited to the round-faced miss. A pearl hatpin placed in the front is the only trimming. The other hat is a large shape with a rolling brim of beaver in taupe effect. Dr. Miles has been known as a leading specialist in these diseases for 25 years. His liberal offer of a $3.75 Treatment free to all sufferers is certainly worthy of serious consideration. You may never have such an opportunity again.

The Grand Dropsy Treatment consists of four dropsy remedies in one, also Tonic Tablets and Pura-Laxa for removing the water. But Los Angeles prides itself on knowing every movie star who appears on the screen Who was this unkempt looking one? Was some new phenom breaking into the game? Los Angelos pressed forward to learn Soon a dense crowd surrounded the bank Then the director whispered something to the 'tramp' and the latter smiled Instantly Los Angeles knew—and wondered

"Why its Wallie Reid," said a sweet young thing

And sure enough But the disguise was perfect The handsomest man in pictures looked like the most disreputable hobo Only the smile remained the same And that famous smile is working overtime in "Double Speed" the picture that caused all the curiosity and which is coming to the American theatre next Sunday Mr Reid is supported by Wanda Hawley Theodore Roberts Tully Marshall and others It is a Paramount Artcraft directed by Sam Wood

'TWO WEEKS' COMES TO COLONIAL SUNDAY

Constance Talmadge proves that a woman can get anything she wants if she only knows how to go about it, as you will see in 'Two Weeks,' a picture taken from "At the Barn" Anthong Wharton's play which will be shown at the Colonial theatre on Sunday.

Miss Talmadge, as Lillums a show girl, flees from an escort who has been rude and winds up at the home of three crusty bachelors The grave, old butler is horrified at her appearance and tells her no women are allowed on the premises Nothing daunted, she shows him a slight thorn bruise and pretends to be suffering.

The butler falls at once and in his sympathy takes her to the bath room, to bathe and bind up the wound Then Lillums is caught by the owners, who are shocked at the very thought of her intrusion. But a flirty smile and a toss of her pretty had wins two of them to her cause and she settles down for a visit And the third bachelor? Well she vamps him plenty before her two weeks stay is finished.

It's the story of a chorus girl who wins her way to stardom and then gives up the stage because she has found something more to her liking.

'SPEAK-EASY' AT DREAMLAND NEXT SABBATH

"The Speak-Easy," the new Paramount Mack Sennett comedy which comes to the Dreamland theatre next Sunday contains a brilliant cast in which are included many Mack Sennett favorites Charley Murray the genial Irishman plays the leading role, that of a hotel keeper who runs a 'blind pig" in the cellar of his hostelry Marie Provost, of bathing girl fame, is his daughter whose quick brain conceives a way to get pa out of jail when the contents of his cellar are discovered by the authorities Ma is played by Fanny Kelly, while Garry Odell is the unsuccessful suitor Eddie Gribbon and Kalla Pasha play two young men who have been supported by the government for a space.

Richard Jones directed what is said to be one of the best Sennett comedies released Every scene contains a world of fun and the antics by various members of the cast, especially Mr Murray, keep the audience continuously in good humor.

'THE TRIFLERS' TO BE SHOWN AT STRAND

Her new found society friends were too narrow minded to appreciate her self sacrifice when she endangered her reputation to prevent the wreck of another woman's home That and many other things convinced her that "high society," her dream world, was not to be compared to the prosaic but cheerful and substantial world of sales counter and front porch rocking chairs which she had fled.

As Janet Randall, an ambitious shop-girl, Edith Roberts portrays with sympathetic skill, a story of the lure of the society page and the disillusionment of "high life" in certain social sets How the pretty shop-girl sacrifices her year's savings in order to pass a few vacation days at an extravagant hotel frequented by "society" and how she is sucked into the malestrom of gilded pleasure seekers, and made a plaything of fate, is strikingly shown in Universal's latest feature, "The Triflers," shown at Strand theatre

'VICTORY' COMING TO AMERICAN TUESDAY

To screen the great scenes in his new production "Victory," made from Joseph Conrad's famous novel, Maurice Tourneur made full use of California's natural beauties. Several episodes were filmed on the rugged coast of Catalina Island. To reproduce as nearly as possible the verdure of the South Seas, where the story is laid, the tropical luxuriance of Palm Springs was used. For the sea scenes the broad expanse of the Pacific in both calm and storm served admirably. A schooner, a Chinese junk, and a stout whaleboat add to the faithfulness of the background.

Woman 80 Years Old

Says she owes her wonderful health to Vinol, our Cod Liver and Iron Tonic.

Wooster, O. — "The grippe left me in a weakened, run-down condition. Doctors had given me their best tonics without effect. As I have depended on Vinol to build me up every spring for the past nine years with such good results, I tried it. My appetite improved, my strength came back so I am not only taking care of my household duties, but direct the management of two large farms. I tell all my friends to use Vinol when they need strength." — MRS. MARTHA SICKLES.

Women who are run-down, nervous, lack energy and working strength should take Vinol as it contains Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron and Hypophosphites, the very elements needed to restore a lost appetite, enrich the blood and create strength.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Too Much Appetite may be as dangerous as too little

When the skin is sallow or yellow, the eyes dull, the head aches or sleep broken and unrefreshing, the back aches, or there is a pain under the right shoulder blade—it is an indication that the body is being poisoned by poorly digested and imperfectly eliminated food-waste. From office boy to president of a company is such a usual thing that people no longer marvel when they read about such instances in the rise of self-made men. But it is still a strange thing for a woman to become president of a company, no matter what her beginnings were. It is therefore with interest that women will read of the rise of Miss Nellie M. Scott who climbed from the position of stenographer to president of a large manufacturing company.

Miss Scott started in as stenographer and general clerk in the Bantam Ball Bearing Company of Bantam, Conn., when the firm was quartered in a small little shack. As the business grew and increased and larger quarters and more help were needed, Miss Scott grew with it and she finally was made secretary to the president of the concern. The president has now retired and Miss Scott has been appointed to succeed him. She is naturally adapted to the duties of the business organization and management, and has served as director in the company for some time past.

Miss Scott believes that women are as capable of handling executive positions as men and she is glad that she will have the chance to prove to herself that she is right. The company is operated on a profit-sharing plan, which was sponsored to a great extent by its new woman president.

TO AID BRAZILIAN WOMEN

An ambitious program for the enlargement of the field of intellectual, moral, commercial and political activity for the women of Brazil, through campaigns to be inaugurated by the recently organized Alliance Feminina, is announced by Senhora Amelia Rodrigues, poet of the state of Bahia and a leader in the feminist movement. Senhora Rodrigues, who is now in Rio de Janeiro to establish headquarters for the new organization, declares the Alliance already has many adherents among Brazilian society, both in the federal capital and in the Brazilian states.

"The Alliance," she said, "will promote the education and instruction of women, the enlargement of her field of moral and intellectual activity, the propaganda in defense of woman's legitimate rights and collective interests, and the intensification of her own special culture by means of schools and courses in domestic economy and allied household sciences. It will work also to purify the theatre, the cinema literature and family customs.

"It will develop the spirit of patriotism it will stimulate protection for the worker, above all for the women and children. It will work for the creation of libraries, reading rooms, and healtful recreation, for civil and commercial equality, and for other feminist ideas. Its sphere of action will be the school the lecture hall and the press. It will be non-political."

WOMEN BARBERS MAY OUST MEN

"Before many years there will be more women than men in the barber trade."

That is the statement of William Gans of Davenport, Ia., who wants to prove to Philadelphia that women barbers are a coming "institution." He believes what he says sufficiently to spend his ready cash in fitting up a barber "college" that will have for its chief purpose the training of women as barbers. Mr. Gans' new establishment there, however, is co-educational.

If Philadelphia hair-cutting shops do not take on his graduates, Mr. Gans says, he will not worry. He purposes to open shops with women barbers only, such as exist now in many cities. He believes Philadelphia will like the innovation and that eventually men will drop out of the barber trade.

The FITCH Grocery

Phone 2831—25 West Ave.

I have bought out the Grocery Store at 25 West Ave.; and I have worked hard for two weeks getting the place in good order. Now, as a little girl told me yesterday "It is some store!" Several hundred dollars worth of new stock has arrived and all unsatisfactory goods have been thrown out. We can supply you with anything you want and it will be fresh stock.

Every day a large number of ladies pass here on their way to the markets and uptown stores. On the way back Mrs. Housewife sets down her heavy basket and looks over my windows. Then she realizes that she could have gotten her groceries here at the same prices she paid in town, and they would have been delivered while she was doing her other shopping.

She goes thoughtfully home and comes in here the next day. Why not follow her example? You need not carry groceries from town. You have enough other articles to carry. We charge you no more, and we deliver the goods.

Our first "Saturday Specials" advertisement will appear tomorrow night. Find it and see our prices.

[illegible]rian Gives an [illegible]count of Army [illegible], California

[illegible] is an extract from a [illegible] by Mrs. A. E. Ehlke, [illegible] from her son [illegible] who is a member of the 21st [illegible] Co., stationed at Arcadia,

Arcadia, Cal., Jan. 15, 1920 [illegible] a five day pass just be- [illegible]stmas and spent the time in [illegible] Southern California with a [illegible] We got our pass the 23rd [illegible] immediately started for Mt. [illegible] intending to stay up all night [illegible] went to Los Angeles and got [illegible] Mt. Lowe car at 4 p. m and [illegible] we got there it was dark. The [illegible] to climb up onto the [illegible] and in about twenty min- [illegible] stopped at a little station and [illegible] everyone got out. A lot more [illegible] so we stayed on too. Well, [illegible] thing we knew the car was [illegible], and on inquiry we were [illegible] ought to have got off at the [illegible] taken the other car and [illegible] to the top. So we stopped [illegible] mountainside and [illegible] When we got to the [illegible] found we had missed the [illegible] incline. Well there [illegible] no place to sleep and [illegible], so started to walk [illegible] the mountain. After a [illegible] we came to a little place [illegible] and got a car into [illegible], where we had supper and [illegible] to camp.

[illegible] up early the next morning [illegible] back to Altadena, then [illegible] station and then [illegible] and resumed our [illegible] car. Before I [illegible] I will tell you about [illegible] It is a through single [illegible] with two cars that work [illegible] One is at the bottom [illegible] at the top. When one [illegible] the other comes down and [illegible] just half way, where they [illegible] switch. The incline is [illegible] 62 per cent grade and is [illegible] grade. The top is 1, [illegible] the bottom. That's how [illegible] 1,600 foot eleva- [illegible] to the top there [illegible] car and that takes you [illegible]. The [illegible] stretch of [illegible] all the rest of the [illegible] around cor- [illegible] on a narrow shelf [illegible] mountain just wide [illegible] a track. Nearly all the way up you can reach out and touch the side of the mountain and on the other side if a person should fall out they would drop hundreds of feet. Believe me, I know what they mean by dizzy heights now. Even when you get to the tavern you are not at the top. You still have 1,600 feet to go and the trail to the top is two and one-half miles. We walked. After we had gone a ways we got on the shady side of the mountain and all at once came upon a drift of snow, then had snow all the way although it was warm and we didn't have to put on our coats. I gues the lightness of the air kept the snow from melting. Believe me, when you finally come out on top you can see some country. All around you can see one range of mountains after another, and down below you can see Los Angeles, Pasadena and other places, and away off is Catalina Island, 65 miles distant. On the other side you can see Mt. Wilson and Old Baldy which is covered with snow all the year. Altogether it is some sight and you get some kick out of it. We stayed up for an hour, then came back to the tavern and had dinner, then went back to Los Angeles. I forgot to tell you that while going up we came upon a bunch of wild goats just around a curve. They were on the car track and they quickly scattered. One jumped on a little bluff and fell twenty-five feet, landing up against a tree. It's a wonder it didn't kill him, but it didn't.

The next day we left for San Pedro on the way to Catalina Island. We got right on the little ship and started for the island. It was pretty rough and many fed the fishes. You couldn't walk around the deck or any other place without holding on. Our boat was a little three-decker with berths, dining room, a big parlor and a bar room. In San Pedro harbor we saw the battleships Mississippi, New Mexico and Texas, also a Japanese cruiser. Catalina is about 35 miles off from San Pedro and it was the first time we had ever been out of the U. S.

We got there about 12:30, then went in one of the glass bottomed boat to see the submarine gardens. That was the prettiest sight I ever expect to see in the water. There are rocks of all colors with sea weed growing up between them. Some of the weeds grow to be 50 or 60 feet long. They grow from the bottom to the surface, but never above it. Looking through the glas you can see for 50 to 75 feet down and see goldfish a foot or more long and all kinds of fish swimming around in these gardens. It makes you feel as if you wanted to go down and live there yourself.

The next day we went to the Selig Zoo. While there the Selig Film Co. were making some pictures. It was some of that emotional stuff and I wouldn't want the job for anything. They try the same thing on about a dozen times and it grows tiresome.

Then we went to Pasadena to see the Harvard-Pasadena football game and the famous carnival of roses. I never saw so many roses and other flowers in my life. Autos were covered until they could not be recognized, and were made to represent everything you could imagine. There were 12 or 15 bands in the parade and I though the end would never come. After the parade we went to the football game. It looked as if everyone in California was there. There were 25,000 people there and it was some crowd. The football for the game was dropped from an airplane. The plane swooped down until it was about 150 feet above the ground and then they cut the ball loose and it landed right on the foot-ball field. Everybody was yelling and chering until you couldn't hear yourself think. It was some game too. The people of Pasadena got up a fund and bought 400 tickets to the game and sent them to the soldiers. That's how I got to go.

From George.

EGYPT IS BURSTING WITH COTTON RICHES

London, Feb. 11—Egypt is "bursting with wealth" accumulated from cotton, says a correspondent of the Daily Express in Carlo.

"Illiterate natives living in mud huts have made 20,000 pounds sterling out of cotton deals," he continues. "Some have made thousands of pounds. They are buying land at inflated prices and paying off mortgages which are regarded as family heirlooms. One British official says that the country has made at least $500,000,000. Naturally there is an influx of new millionaires in Cairo with a huge demand for jewelry, new houses and all kinds of luxuries, but in the provinces many of the newly rich have not changed their standard of living."

Miss Alten Gives Experiences Of Trip Thru South

The following letter has been received by Alfred J Alten, 605 Middle avenue from his sister who is now in the south.

New Orleans Jan 26 1920

"Our trip is one to be remembered for years to come We have seen many interesting places and sights along the highway. The scenery, such as hills, forests, tobacco and cotton fields were of great interest to us. We stopped at a cattle ranch to see some people, who were very nice to us I wish you could see all the cattle, pastures, upto-date barns etc

We drove as far as Madisonville, then took the "Sidney" across the lake put our car in and then enjoyed a boat ride to New Orleans harbor This is a beautiful city in which are handsome, green lawns, roses in bloom as well as many other owers New Orleans has about 1,000 factories and is the greatest manufacturing city in the south It has one of the largest harbors in the world and has the largest cotton, sugar, molasses banana orange and rice markets in the south

The weather here is beautiful, and while you are enjoying winter sports we are enjoying summer games and sports. Saturday was certainly a hot day This is the racing season, and many people are here from the north to attend them We have attended them ourselves and they are interesting. We have attended several of the season's pretty dances and all the ladies and gents try to show us a good time It seems there is something to go to all the time, grand operas by the greatest artists, recitals by well known musicians, high class vaudeville movies, dances by different organizations and many other public places.

Sunday was a beautiful warm day so we drove through part of the country where orange orchards are very thick Can you imagine me picking oranges while you are making snowballs? The city is noted for its good eats they are wonderful Sunday we attended high mass at St Stephen's cathedral and the singing was marvelous It is one of the handsomest churches here There is a lovely organization of the Daughters of Isabella here and we have attended the meetings and social functions. We have enjoyed several trips up the Mississippi river canoeing

How to Economize in Consumption and Cook Successfully With Low Pressure Gas

Technical Paper 257 "Waste and Correct Use of Natural Gas in the Home," by Samuel S. Wyer, just issued by the U. S. Bureau of Mines, Washington, D.C., deals practically with the question of Gas Conservation, and from which we quote the following:

HOW TO GET COOKING BURNERS IN CORRECT POSITION

When purchasing a new stove, get either a manufactured gas stove or a natural gas stove with burners properly raised for short-flame service. The burner should be about 1¼ inches below the bottom of the cooking vessel.

Old stoves worth remodeling may be changed by:

(a) Raising the manifold and burner supports so as to bring the burners to the proper height below the cooking vessel.

(b) In some stoves the manifold may be turned one-half way around so that valves that are at the bottom will then come on the top By altering the burner supports, the burners can then usually be brought to the proper height. In some stoves where cocks are screwed into the manifold, turning the manifold one-quarter way around, removing the cocks, screwing a nipple and elbow into the upturned opening, placing the cock in the elbow and raising the burner supports, will usually bring the burners to the proper position.

(c) In some stoves it will be preferable to cement a new burner casting on top of existing low burners, so as to bring the burner top to the proper height.

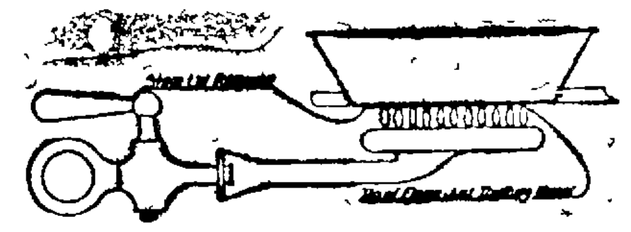

Closed tops should not be used, and in all stoves where the burners are raised, skeleton lids, grid, or open tops must be used with the short flames.

A larger sized spud opening that is, the small opening immediately in front of the gas cock through which the gas passes into the mixer—should be used with low-pressure service. Some stoves have adjustable spuds; others must have either new spuds or have the old small openings reamed larger

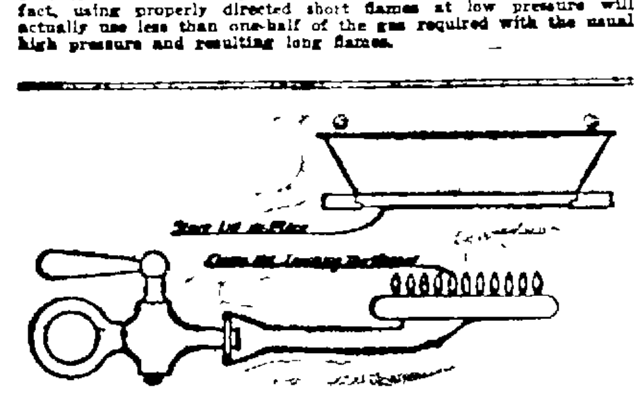

Baker or oven burners need not be raised, because the heat from the burning gas is already inside of the chamber to be heated The spud and mixer must, however, be adjusted so as to give a pale blue non luminous flame

HOW TO COOK WITH VERY LOW GAS PRESSURE

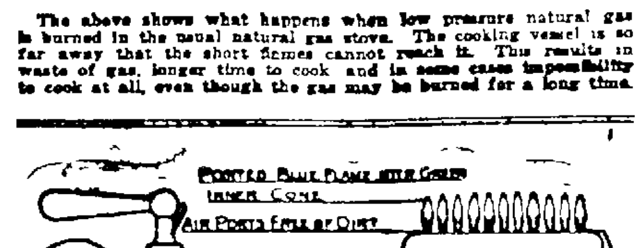

In cold weather, when the demand for natural gas is greater than the supply and the pressure is therefore low, lowering the cooking vessel down to within one half inch of the burner top may be desirable. This may be done by placing three or four nails in drilled burners, or, three or four pieces of thin sheet iron in slotted burners, as shown by illustration, and then placing the vessel on these nails or sheet iron supports so that the very short flames from the low-pressure gas will reach the bottom of the cooking vessel. If this is done, satisfactory cooking results can be obtained with pressures as low as three tenths of an inch of water pressure, which produces a flame about three eighths of an inch long That is, with this close position of the vessel the cooking can be accomplished in about the normal time and with less gas than would be used with the long flame and high pressure.

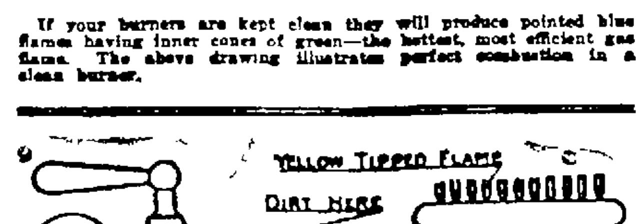

Merely lowering the cooking vessel or raising the burner, as shown above will result in satisfactory cooking in the usual length of time with same low pressure same stove and same burner In fact, using properly directed short flames at low pressure will actually use less than one-half of the gas required with the usual high pressure and resulting long flames.

The above shows what happens when low pressure natural gas is burned in the usual natural gas stove. The cooking vessel is so far away that the short flames cannot reach it. This results in waste of gas, longer time to cook and in some cases impossibility to cook at all, even though the gas may be burned for a long time.

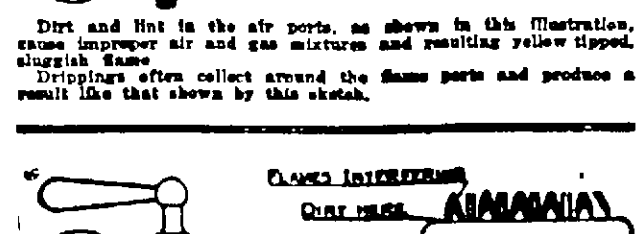

If your burners are kept clean they will produce pointed blue flames having inner cones of green—the hottest, most efficient gas flame. The above drawing illustrates perfect combustion in a clean burner.

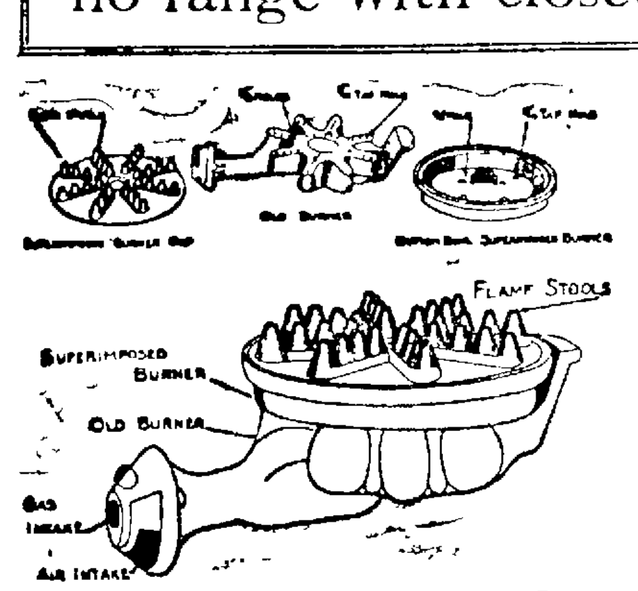

Dirt and lint in the air ports, as shown in this illustration, cause improper air and gas mixtures and resulting yellow tipped, sluggish flame

Drippings often collect around the flame ports and produce a result like that shown by this sketch.

Give your natural gas a chance. Keep air ports and flame ports free of dirt, lint or drippings Remove burners occasionally, boil them in water to which two tablespoons of washing soda have been added, and dry them before replacing.

Buy no Ranges or Hot Plates in which the Burners are located more than 1¼ inches below top of skeleton lids, and buy no range with closed tops.

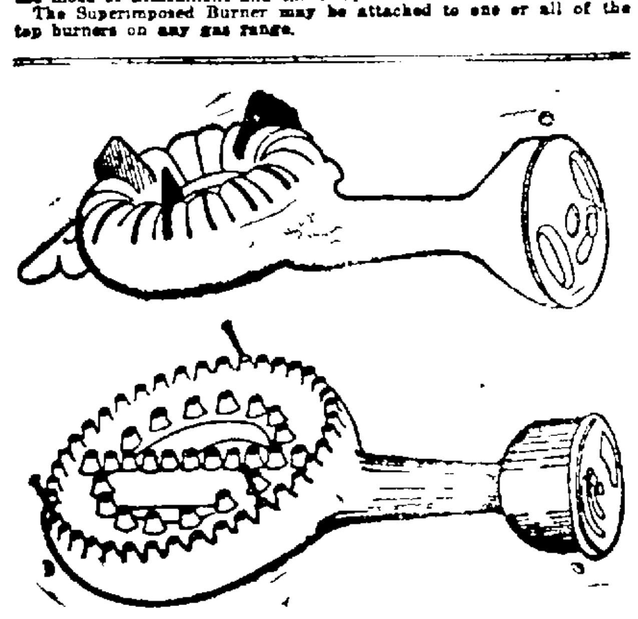

THE WITMAN SUPERIMPOSED GAS BURNER

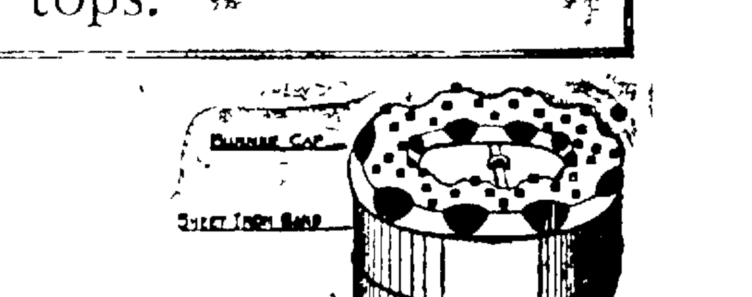

To meet low gas pressure conditions and carry on cooking operations there has been developed the Witman Superimposed Gas Burner. This is a simple device that can be attached at small expense to any burner on any gas range now in use without disturbing the construction of the range

The illustration shows the arrangement of the burner in parts, the mode of attachment and the complete burner

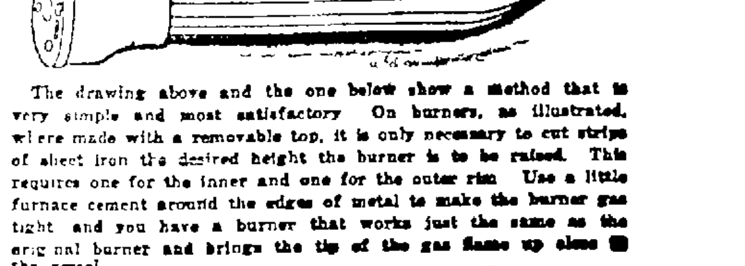

The Superimposed Burner may be attached to one or all of the top burners on any gas range.

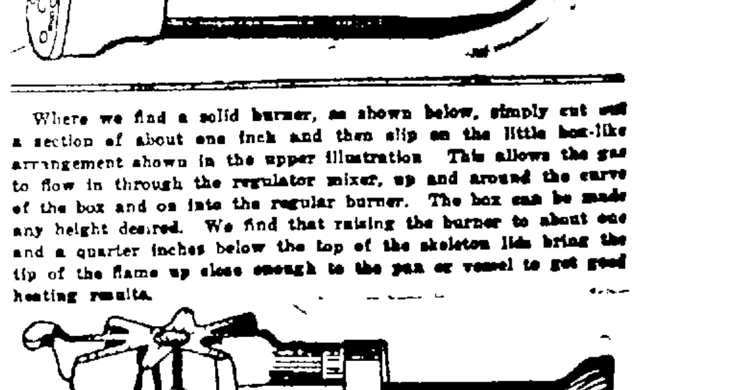

As a temporary means, remove the stove top and on drilled burners insert three wire nails and on slotted burners, three pieces of sheet-iron, for supporting the cooking vessel as shown above so that the tip of the short low pressure flame comes close to the vessel bottom.

The drawing above and the one below show a method that is very simple and most satisfactory On burners, as illustrated, where made with a removable top, it is only necessary to cut strips of sheet iron the desired height the burner is to be raised. This requires one for the inner and one for the outer rim Use a little furnace cement around the edges of metal to make the burner gas tight and you have a burner that works just the same as the original burner and brings the tip of the gas flame up close to the vessel.

Where we find a solid burner, as shown below, simply cut out a section of about one inch and then slip on the little box-like arrangement shown in the upper illustration This allows the gas to flow in through the regulator mixer, up and around the curve of the box and on into the regular burner. The box can be made any height desired. We find that raising the burner to about one and a quarter inches below the top of the skeleton lids bring the tip of the flame up close enough to the pan or vessel to get good heating results.

Special Caution—After having adjusted your burners to the proper height never lower them again when gas pressure is higher. Control the flow of gas by the stop cock and thus maintain the same length of flame. By so doing you will obtain absolutely efficient results with a great saving in the consumption of gas, with a consequent saving in your gas bills.

Heating Economy Instructions—Just as soon as we can complete experiments and tests with new type low pressure gas heating appliances we will give our patrons full instructions and suggestions as to best means to secure the highest heating efficiency with greatly reduced consumption of gas and expense.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN YOUR LITTLE CHILD !

Bone deformities, tuberculous joints, infantile paralysis—the children's scourge, spare neither rich nor poor. Their results are always terrible. Your own child, if once attacked by any of these dread diseases, might be just as badly crippled as was this little one.

The original of these photographs has been a patient at The Gates Hospital For Crippled Children for less than two years. She may never entirely recover, but will now become a useful member of society. She will be able to take care of herself and perform any reasonable work that falls to her lot in the years to come.

This is only one case out of many. Day after day this wonderful institution quietly performs miracles like this.

Their motto tells the story simple and briefly.

"WE CAN'T—NEVER."
"WE CAN—OFTEN."
"WE WILL TRY—ALWAYS."

This institution is financed mainly by the Community Chest Council. No one with a heart at all can refuse to help these little unfortunate children.

Think of the happy play of little ones cured. Think of the comfort to fathers and mothers who never expected to see their baby play like other children.

THEN GIVE, GIVE JOYOUSLY, FOR SUCH A GIFT IS AN INVESTMENT.
IT WILL PAY YOU BACK A THOUSAND PERCENT IN HAPPINESS.

thing through Congress or the legislature through Congress of the legislature of the state is in favor of Mr Atwood's speech and against the people's rule through the initiative and referendum.

Selfish Motives

Every man who ever bribed his way either to get something for himself or his company or of public office through a legislature or through Congress, is in favor of Mr Atwood's speech and against the initiative and and referendum of the people?

Every man who has got something that he desires to put over on the people and he believes that he can work their representatives either by fooling them or feeding them, is in favor of Mr Atwood's position against the people's right to rule.

Boss Murphy of Tammany hall would applaud it. George B Cox if he were alive today would say to Mr Atwood "Go it old boy" them's the words. Boss Platt would say "Now we are coming into our own." Senator Penrose might be paving Mr Atwood a salary. I am not surprised at these men but must we all who are interested in the government of the people join to this bunch the members of the Chamber of Commerce of the city of Elyria? Surely there must be some mistake, since two hundred Elyrians rose and cheered.

Welsh Race Abused

Not so many months ago by consent of the City Fathers, we buried the representative of special privilege in the Public Square. By some hook or crook has he come to life again and through Atwood and others seeks to establish himself among us?

The history of my people (the Welsh) who have lost even their name from the geographies is a bloody protest against the rule of the privileged classes. The English people from the Magna Charta down to Lloyd George have shown the world the misrule of classes. And to cap the climax this bloody war was forced on us because the privileged class could say "Me und Gott." Four million dead soldiers and four hundred thousand maimed and wounded men is the answer back. In the name of the common people we protest against such declarations in our city.

Weak, Thin, Nervous People Should Take Bitro-Phosphate

What It Is And How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve-Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy developing arms and neck, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back

By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements bitro-phosphate should soon produce a welcome transformation in the appearance the increase in weight frequently being astonishing

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear, dull eyes brighten and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health

CAUTION —While Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for the relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., [illegible]

TO RELIEVE CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear

Therefore if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows

Secure from your druggists 1 oz Parmint (Double Strength) Take this home and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar stir until dissolved Take one tablespoonful four times a day

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective

Every person who has catarrh in any form or distressing rumbling hissing sounds in their ears should give this recipe a trial
